Abstract

English is taught as a compulsory subject in junior high school, senior high school and also in universities for several terms. So that the students must have English skill. There are differences of rule and structure in English and Indonesian. For instance, in Indonesian here is no change in verb and it is very different with English. Mostly, Indonesian is still influenced by their mother tongue on the approach to the target language (English). Therefore, this research aimed to find out the student’s grammatical error in writing descriptive paragraph. The objectives of this research are as follows: 1) To find the students grammatical error in writing descriptive paragraph made by the eighth-grade students of SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar. 2) To find out and give image to readers of the most frequent errors that the students do in writing descriptive paragraph made by the eighth grade of SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar. This research was presented using descriptive qualitative research method. The researchers used a documentation as instrument for collecting the data. The researchers took one assignment in students’ English task books. In collect data, the researchers did some steps. 1) Ask for permission to the teacher for taking documentation the students’ tasks. 2) Consulting the task to the teacher. 3) Giving the task. 4) Analysing the student tasks. 5) Getting the data. The data was collected on 14th June 2021. The population of this study was taken from the eighth-grade students SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar and the researchers took five class (VIII A, VIII B, VIII C, VIIID, and VIIIE) as the subject. The sample was taken by using purposive sampling technique. The class consisted of 30 students. The result of this research shows that the total errors are 100%. It means that the grammatical error in writing descriptive paragraph made by the eighth grade of SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar is on less sufficient level. The percentage of students’ grammatical error in types of omission (29,5%), error of addition (16,7%), error of misformation (44,9%) and error of misordering (8,9%). Based on the result of the research, it is suggested that the eighth-grade students of SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar should be given more explanation and exercise in writing descriptive paragraph.

INTRODUCTION

In Indonesia, English has been the most important of foreign language. English has been established as one of the subjects in the formal education. English is taught as a compulsory subject in junior high school, senior high school and also in universities for several terms. So that the students must have English skill. There are differences of rule and structure in English and Indonesian. For instance, in Indonesian here is no change in verb and it is very different with English. Mostly, Indonesian is still influenced by their mother tongue (Javanese, Sundanese, etc) on the approach to the target language (English). That is why the students commonly find difficulties or problems in using English correctly, especially in grammar.

Grammar is one of the sub-skills that support in writing. Grammar is also one of the basic components of language which have to be learnt by students. Belo (2017:513) stated grammar comes as the most difficult and complicated subject to be mastered by students. It means the grammar in a language should be known well. Therefore, it is difficult for students to develop their English proficiency. The difference between the errors is one of factors which induce the students to make many errors. It can affect to their content in writing. As a result, when they send the message not conveyed successfully to the reader.

Error is usually the only way to discover the truth and it only can be corrected by others. According to Moqimipour & Shahrokhi (2015:124) errors can be seen as inadequate knowledge about foreign language rules which start the production of unacceptable written oral linguistic items. Writing is the activity to express the ideas and thoughts. Harmer (2004:31) states writing is one of the learning materials included in every teaching and learning syllabus. Writing is one of the important skills have to learn. It is not easy for anyone who has not mastered the components of writing. In writing practice, the students need long time to be able writing well, because there are some aspects must be owned for producing a good writing.

The researchers chose descriptive paragraph because it can make students to explore their idea. Based on the preliminary the researchers gained some data in SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar that the students had difficulty in writing skill. They had low score in writing descriptive paragraph. The students got difficulty in constructing sentences by using simple present tense, conjunction, word choice, etc.

Referring to the reasons above, the researchers decided to classify the errors based on Corder’s theory (1973:257), there are error of omissions, error of additions, error of misformation, and error of misordering. Therefore, an error analysis has an important role to reveal what kinds error that the students do most. The objectives of the research are 1) To find the students grammatical error in writing Descriptive Paragraph Made by the Eighth Grade Students of SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar. 2) To find out and give image to readers of the most frequent errors that the students do in writing descriptive paragraph. The significances of this the study are the result of the study hopefully will be benefit for English teachers to improve the teaching techniques and to encourage their students to be more cautious in using every aspect of grammar in writing descriptive paragraph. It can be used to help the students write a descriptive paragraph then students capable to give some contribution in attempting to decrease errors done by the students help them to improve their writing skills especially in writing descriptive paragraph. It can be used as a reference for those who want to conduct the similar research.

RESEARCHED METHODOLOGY

The research used descriptive qualitative research method. According to Gay (2012:183) that descriptive research is survey research. The case study method is the most popular form of qualitative analysis and involves a careful and complete observation of a social unit. It means the descriptive method accurately describes a situation of environment in details.

This research method related to the problem in SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar. This research was conducted to investigate the students’ writing ability of using simple present tense in writing descriptive paragraph. This research conducted in the Eighth grade of the second semester. The research subject was a target to get a goal certain about a matter that will be objectively proven. According to Sugiyono (2013:32) the research subject is an attribute or nature or value of the person. Research subject in this research was the eighth grade of SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar. The researchers took random class as sample purposive sampling with the numbers 30 students that consists of Class VIII A (3 students), VIII B (14 students), VIII C (4 students), VIII D (4 students), and VIII E (5 students) of the eighth grade of SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar for sample in the research. The researchers chose purposive sampling based on the subject that focused on the eighth-grade students that lived near of SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar.

Purposive sampling is one of the non-random sampling techniques which determines the sampling by determining the specific characteristics that are in accordance with the research objectives so that it is expected to answer research problems. According to Arikunto (2010:183), purposive sampling is the process of selecting sample by taking subject that is not based on the level or area, but it is taken base on the specific purpose.

In conducting the research, the researchers used procedures as follows:
1. Formulating the research problems and determining the focus of the research.
2. Determining the way to gain the idea
   It was taken based on the document analysis.
3. Determining the research subject.
   The subject of this research was the students of the second semester of the eighth grade of SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar.
4. Taking the document
   The researchers took the document based on the students’ English task books. It was the one of the assignments of writing descriptive paragraph.
5. Identifying and classifying the data
   The researchers identified and classified the students’ errors of using present tense in writing descriptive paragraph based on surface strategy taxonomy (omission, addition, misformation, and misordering). Then, the researchers described the proportions (frequency and percentage) of errors are made by the students.
6. Making report findings

After gaining the data, the researchers made the report of the writer’s finding. A research instrument is a tool that determined by researcher and it can include interviews, tests, surveys or checklists. Arikunto (2013:203) states the research instrument is a tool or facility used by the researcher when collecting the data in order to be easier in doing her or his work to get a good result. In this research, the researchers took one assignment in students’ English task books. It was the last assignment of writing descriptive paragraph.

In collecting data, the researchers used documentation of collect the data. The steps of data collection were by asking for permission to the teacher for taking documentation the students’ tasks, consulting the task to the teacher, giving the task, analysing the student tasks, getting the data. The data collected would be analyzed by using procedures that are consists of three steps based on Corder’s theory. It consists of collecting the sample, identification of error, describing student’s errors. It means to determine the sources (causes) of the errors based on Corder’s theory beside the researchers uses triangulation as supporting data.

RESEARCH FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

1. Classification of Error

In the research finding, the researchers identified the students’ common error and problems in writing descriptive paragraph. This offers assistance to teachers in their work when correcting students’ writing skills and analyzing errors that are often made so that in the future students will not do the same errors. In addition, teachers can also look for variations in strategies and techniques in teaching based on the analysis of student writing errors so that student problems in writing can be resolved appropriately. Fitrawati & Safitri (2021:75) stated that various errors are seen as a means to an end, some researchers tend to discover the appropriate corrective techniques that can aid the effective learning and teaching of English. Furthermore, Erdogan (2005:267) stated errors are a means of feedback for the teacher reflecting how effective he/she is in his teaching style and what changes he/she has to make to get higher performance from his students.

The research objective is to know the students’ common error and students’ problem in writing descriptive paragraph. Corder (1973:257) classifies errors into 4 types. They are Omission, Addition, Misformation, and Misordering. The research findings of this research are described as follows:

3. The Interpretation of the Data

The result shows that four types most common grammatical error in writing descriptive paragraph on present tense, namely: omission, addition, misformation, and misordering. From the frequency of each error types, misformation was the error which most frequently produced by the students. It took 100% of the total errors. Moreover, 29,5% errors of omission and 16,7 % errors of addition, whereas, for the misformation 44,9% and misordering 8,9%. These errors were conducted because most of the students didn’t understand about the rules of target language. So that the students generalized the rule and applied it incompletely. In summarize, it showed that the usage of grammar in writing descriptive paragraph is difficult for students. Therefore, the students are still lack of understanding the English Grammar in term of tenses because in Indonesian tenses system isn’t show the time of the event. The most frequent errors that done by the Eighth grade of SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar is in error of misformation. Students have difficulty in producing effective idea and expressing their idea in written form. Therefore, it makes their written not clear.

4. Discussion

The discussion of students’ errors analysis of writing Descriptive paragraph described as follows:

1. Omission

The total of omission is 23 errors or 29,5%. Omission error occurs when the learner omitted the necessary element of word. Omission errors fell both in the substance and in the grammar level. Most students committed errors by omitting a letter which must be exist within a morpheme. For examples: ‘he has pet’. While he is supposed to write, ‘he has a pet’. She shorter than me. While he is supposed to write, he is shorter than me.

From the example above it is clear that the students did not use an article and a verb.

2. Addition

Total of the errors of addition is 13 or 16,7% in grammar text level. On the writer’s opinion, these errors occurred because the students did not clearly understand of the structure of the sentence. They added an unnecessary word that doesn’t needed in the sentence. For examples: his weight is a heavy. The article ‘a’ there must be omitted because it is not needed. As we know that without the article ‘a’ the sentence is more relevant. Another example is my father is a friendly man. While the student is supposed to write friendly person. So that the word man is not needed in that sentence.

3. Misformation

The total error of misformation that the researchers found is 35 errors or 44,9% and this is the highest error that the students do. These errors happened because the students having lack of vocabulary and its use. The students were confused in choosing the words. In this case, the example:

His fur is so soft, his tail. While the right answer is supposed to its fur is so soft, its tail. From this sentence it can be seen that the student is wrong to choose the subject pronoun so they misformation about it.

4. Misordering

While the error of ordering that the researchers found is 7 errors or 8,9%. This error is sometimes as the result from interlingual transfer. The students got the influence of the sentence’s structure. The example is I like to eat an ice cream of one cup. The correct form is I like to eat one cup of ice cream.
5. The Explanation of Error

In this step, the researchers would like to classify the errors based on their source of error. They wanted to analysis based on the interlingual transfer (an error which is caused by the students use their own native language as a source). It means what they do are translate from Indonesian into English directly. In fact, both Indonesian and English have different structure. For example: Panda eats bamboo and they almost eat up 40 kg bamboo in just one day. The correct form is one day, panda eats bamboo and it almost eats up 40 kg bamboo. The other example is Kiki is my very beautiful and cute pet cat. The correct form is Kiki is my cute pet cat and it is beautiful.

These errors occur because the pattern of both languages. The students omitted the article and misformation the article. The researchers compared to the result of questionnaires, the students did not really understand about the rules which is mean the grammar and they did not really understand of structure of the sentence. And the teacher did not explain it clearly. So that the source comes from interlingual transfer because they are still influenced by their own language.

6. The Evaluation of Error

The purpose of the error analysis is to help students to study second language, it is important to evaluate the errors. Some errors can be considered more serious than others because they can hinder the message of the communication. In this research, the researchers considered that the errors which are causing by partial learning that have an impact for the students such as they do not have misconception from the materials given.

CONCLUSION

Based on the explanation in the previous chapters, this research was carried out to analyze and classify the types of students’ grammatical errors in writing descriptive paragraph. The error collected was classified based on Corder’s theory. The researchers concluded that the types of error that were made the eighth-grade students of SMP Negeri 2 Karanganyar in their writing from the highest percentage to the lowest are error of misformation, error of omission, error of addition and error of misordering. The result of the error analysis process showed that students committed error into four types: omission, addition, misformation, and misordering. From the frequency of each error types, misformation was the error which most frequently produced by the students. It took 44,9% of the total errors. Moreover, 29,5% errors felt into error of omission and 16,7% errors felt into addition; whereas, for misordering, it only took 8,9%.

In summarize, it showed that the usage of the grammar in writing is difficult for students. Besides that, the analysis of the students’ grammatical errors in writing descriptive paragraph is very important because the teachers can know the factual condition of the students’ ability in writing and what kinds of error that the students probably do in their writing for the next. Theoretically, error is a mistake occurs that do repeatedly by the learner. That is why some errors happened when the researchers conducted the research.
Their research found that the frequently error which most the students made is in errors of misformation are 35 errors or 44.9%.
